COMPASSIONATE AND CRUELTY-FREE SHOPPING BEGINS HERE!

Look for the leaping bunny

Many people are unaware that cosmetics, toiletries, household products and other products like paint, glue, weedkillers and more, are still tested on animals in the most terrible of ways; blinding, poisoning, burning, ingesting until poisoned to death, skin irritants without pain relief, sadly and tragically in more ways we wouldn't dare to dream of. This includes the ingredients too.

HOWEVER there are hundreds of products and their ingredients, that ARE cruelty-free. Products like Astonish, Superdrug own brand, Co-op own brand products and many more companies. There are top of the range products made by Stella McCartney among others and thankfully there are lots of amazing products at everyday prices.

There are online companies such as Honesty Cosmetics and Big Green Smile www.honestycosmetics.co.uk and www.biggreensmile.com just two of many great companies with a huge range of products; just type in Cruelty-free shopping U.K. and loads of websites will appear.

In the U.K. the two best websites to find out who produces cruelty-free brands are the following:
Naturewatch www.naturewatch.org look for their Compassionate shopping guide and Cruelty-free International – leaping bunny programme
www.crueltyfreeinternational.org
Ditching your favourite brand for a cruelty-free one leads to a discovery of great products that will soon replace the ones you used and save animals lives. YOU can make a difference.

Sadly many medical research charities also still use animals even though it is NOT scientifically valid to do so. PLEASE support non-animal medical research charities:

Two of our favourites are:

www.animalfreeresearchuk.org

and www.humaneresearch.org.uk

Chris Packham (photo) is a Patron.

To discover more about animal-free medical research and charities that don't use animals please see:

Safer Medicines – www.safermedicines.org

Animal Aid – www.victimsofcharity.org

www.animalaid.org.uk

ON BEHALF OF THE ANIMALS, THANK YOU